

Press Release

Contact: Investigator Peter Jakowski
Phone: (608) 781-9550

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
17 Feb 2012

2nd Annual "Cops Gone Wild"

Onalaska Police Officers are preparing to go "wild" at Buffalo Wild Wings as the second annual "Cops Gone Wild" fund raiser for Special Olympics kicks off on February 22nd at noon. Onalaska Officers will take over food service from noon until 8:00pm and all tips earned by the officers as well as a portion of the food sales during the event will be benefit Special Olympic athletes. At 5:00pm last year's wing eating champion, Onalaska Police Chief Jeffrey Trotnic will defend his title by challenging other area Chiefs to see who can eat the most wings. There will also be games and prizes for the kids, a Police car on display and volunteers will be on hand to issue child ID cards.

"This is the second year our department has sponsored this event to benefit Special Olympics," said Investigator Peter Jakowski of the Onalaska Police Department, "My wife Patti and I coach these young people, we see their struggles and their triumphs so we are honored to do whatever we can to support them. We're hoping the community will come out and help us make "Cops Gone Wild" a success."

Investigator Jakowski is the "Cops Gone Wild" event organizer. He will be on the serving floor with other members of the Onalaska Police Department on the 22nd.

~ MORE ~

